

Idaho Site Contractor Timeline

The University of Chicago was one of the original contractors at the Idaho Site, managing Experimental Breeder Reactor-1 (below).

The Idaho Nuclear Technology and Engineering Center (formerly the Idaho Chemical Processing Plant) has had nine different contractors over the years. It has been a separate contract, part of the prime contract, and is now part of the Idaho Cleanup Project.

The Loss of Fluid Test Facility is demolished as part of decommissioning and decontamination activities. Most site D&D activities are now managed under the Idaho Cleanup Project contract.

The Specific Manufacturing Capability project, which makes tank armor for the Army's main battle tank, came on line in the 1980s. It was originally managed under a separate contract, but it's now a part of the INL's prime contract.

The Advanced Mixed Waste Treatment Plant started out as a privatized facility owned by BNFL, Inc. It was sold to DOE in 2005 and is now operated by Bechtel BWXT Idaho.

Argonne National Laboratory-West was consolidated into the Idaho National Laboratory, which was created in 2005, and is now known as the Materials and Fuels Complex.
